
Call for participants for an academic seminar at [name of the host institution]

Civil Resistance: The Study of Nonviolent Power and Organized People

Host University Coordinator: [name]

E-mail:

Telephone:

ICNC Seminar at , on ... [e.g. 2 ½ days of sessions]

[Name of the host department/university] and the International Center on Nonviolent Conflict are organizing an academic seminar on civil resistance. The target audience is graduate students, junior faculty and researchers with an interest in nonviolent movements, people power and nonviolent change. The goal of the seminar is to promote the study, research and teaching in the field of civil resistance studies.

Themes [ICNC will provide an updated list of seminar topics]

The seminar will discuss different empirical cases and basic concepts of civil resistance. Thematic areas covered will include, among others:

- Effectiveness of civil resistance
- How civil resistance works: strategies and tactics
- Managing repression
- Third-party actors and civil resistance
- Civil resistance and democratization
- Civil resistance in North America, Europe, North Africa and the Middle East

Seminar instructors

The ICNC instructors who will deliver the seminar content include its staff, academic advisors and other collaborators.

Language of the instruction

All sessions will be held in English and a good working knowledge of English language is necessary.

ICNC Materials

An electronic reading list will be distributed prior to the seminar via an ICNC e-class to which registered participants will have indefinite access. Participants will not be required to read any literature prior to the seminar.

How to Apply

The space for this seminar is limited.

Please send an e-mail to [name of the contact person and email address] with a brief explanation of why you want to participate in the seminar, your institutional affiliation and specialization.

Participants

This 2 ½ day seminar is organized primarily for [name of the host institution] students and faculty, but outside participants are encouraged to apply. Only registered participants will be allowed to attend the seminar and attendance for the full length of the seminar is required.

Application submission date

Please apply for the seminar by [specify the deadline]

Seminar schedule

Seminar sessions will run from 9:00 till 17:00 (with short coffee breaks and longer lunch breaks in-between). Snacks and lunches will be provided for participants.

There is no fee associated with this seminar or its materials.